TOWN OF MEMPHIS,

HAS been laid off by the proprietors on the Chickasaw Bluff, on the east bank of the Mississippi, 224 miles below the mouth of the Ohio. The position is noticed in the Pittsburgh Navigator, p. 165. The site of this town is believed to be the handsomest on the Mississippi below St. Louis.

It is the intention of the proprietors not to offer the Lots at public sale, but to induce, and make it the interest of the prudent and discreet adventurers of all classes, to settle and improve the place. The plan for its settlement was not decided on until the 26th inst. when it was determined by the proprietors to dispose of no lots except to actual settlers for a reasonable consideration, payable at the end of five years, on bond, and security if required, to be given at the end of that time. The situation is handsome, well watered, and healty. It is situated in lat. 35°6 N. long. 13° W. from Washington, according to Melish's map. Its position and advantages invite the community particularly, to examine it and judge for themselves.

The proprietors have agents resident at that place, viz: major Marcus B. Winchester, Dr. W. Butler and William Lawrence, any two of whom are authorised to transact business; to whom application can be made, and by whom the terms of settlement and sale, will be more particularly made known.

STOP THE THIEF & SWINDLER!

WAS stolen, on Saturday the 20th May, inst. out of the bureau of Jacob Christine, in. Marietta, by a young man named

George Nicholas,

Son of Michael Nicholas, deceased, who formerly kept the Cross Keys tavern on the Lancaster and Harrisburg turnpike, a small Box, containing a ten dollar note on the Lancaster Bank, and a gold finger ring, with the initials S. C. on it. Said Nicholas is about 5 feet 8 inches high, tolerably stout built, fair complexion, light or sandy hair, large nose, and is a tailor by trade.—Had on when he went away, a blue coat with a velvet collar, and blue pantaloons. It is presumed he has either gone to Ohio or Virginia. Said Nicholas also borrowed of John Mishey, (son of the subscriber) on the 23d of this month, to be returned the same evening, a handsome

Dark Iron Grey Gelding,

About 15 hands high, nicked, carries well, about 7 years old, rather light coloured about the head than body, the end of his tail also some what whiter than other parts, a natural trotter, and is an excellent gig-horse. This horse, it is presumed, he has also taken with him. A reward of 40 dollars will be paid for securing the thief and horse within 200 miles of Lancaster, Pa. or 20 dollars for either, and 10 dollars additional for every 100 miles he may be further off when apprehended. The reward will be paid by the subscriber, living on the Lancaster and Harrisburg turnpike, near the village of Mountjoy, Lancaster county, Pa.

Dissolution of Partnership.

THE co-partnership of the subscribers, heretofore existing under the firm of HENRY MILLER & Co. Patent Cooking Stove Manufacturers, is dissolved by mutual consent. Cincinnati, January 27, 1820.

The above business will in future be carried on by the subscriber, at the old stand in Pittsburgh, and as he intends to devote his whole time and attention to the business, the public may rest assured that all orders will be promptly attended to.

The utility, convenience and economy of "C. Postly's Patent Cooking Stove or Portable Kitchen," are becoming too well known in the western country not to be rightly appreciated in these times of pecuniary pressure, when economy in families is so highly recommended and so much insisted on by all wise and judicious men in the country. As this Stove has already obtained the entire approbation of many respectable citizens of Pittsburgh and various parts of the western country who have made trial of it, the subscriber refers to such for any information that may be desired respecting this great improvement in domestic economy.

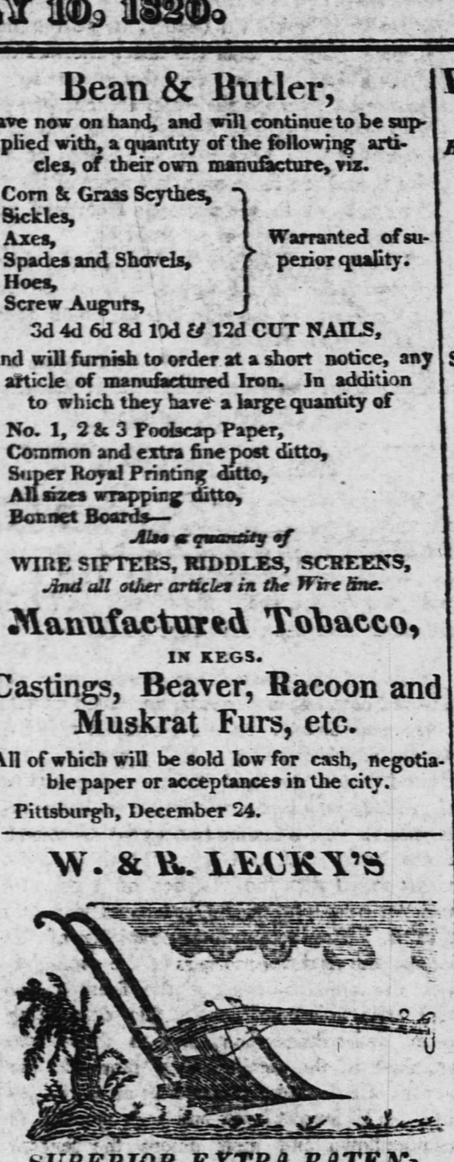
W. & R. LECKY'S



SUPERIOR EXTRA PATENT
PLOUGHS

Warranted equal to any ever made in the United States.

In pointing out the advantages of the Ploughs over those generally termed 'Peacock's Patent Ploughs,' the subscribers assure the public that they are not actuated by any motives of jealousy or hostility to the persons who have, as they themselves state, purchased the rights for a 'valuable consideration.' But when on a fair trial, the superiority of their Ploughs has been so generally acknowledged by practical farmers, and from the very rapid sale they have met with, they are induced to prefer their claim to precedence.

Because—Their ploughs have a whole share and landside with a socket, made of wrought iron and steel, which prevents the necessity of a number of screws and bolts, which impede the operation of the ploughs by catching roots, grass, &c.

Because—They are so constructed, that any of the irons may be separately taken to a smith's shop for repair, without the necessity, as in case of 'Peacock's Patents,' of taking the whole plough to the shop.

Because—They are more simple in their construction, and less liable to be out of repair.

The ploughs will all be branded with the names of the subscribers, and warranted, and a general assortment of the various sizes always on hand. Also on hand, a quantity of IRONS and CASTINGS, which will be sold on moderate terms, and instructions given (gratis) to such persons as may wish to make the wood work of their own ploughs.

As the proprietors of 'Peacock's Patents,' wish to deter the public from purchasing what they call 'half patents,' in allusion as we believe to those made by the subscribers, under the penalties of the law for every infringement, we deem it proper to state, that those who are disposed to purchase from us will be indemnified, in any security they demand, from the threats thus improperly held out.

Their ploughs are always made of the best materials, and of well seasoned wood.

They still carry on the COACH & WAGGON making business, at their old stand in Wood st. corner of Virgin alley.

W. & R. LECKY.

W. & R. LECKY'S

SUPERIOR EXTRA PATENT

PLOUGHS

Warranted equal to any ever made in the United States.

In pointing out the advantages of the Ploughs over those generally termed 'Peacock's Patent Ploughs,' the subscribers assure the public that they are not actuated by any motives of jealousy or hostility to the persons who have, as they themselves state, purchased the rights for a 'valuable consideration.' But when on a fair trial, the superiority of their Ploughs has been so generally acknowledged by practical farmers, and from the very rapid sale they have met with, they are induced to prefer their claim to precedence.

Because—Their ploughs have a whole share and landside with a socket, made of wrought iron and steel, which prevents the necessity of a number of screws and bolts, which impede the operation of the ploughs by catching roots, grass, &c.

Because—They are so constructed, that any of the irons may be separately taken to a smith's shop for repair, without the necessity, as in case of 'Peacock's Patents,' of taking the whole plough to the shop.

Because—They are more simple in their construction, and less liable to be out of repair.

The ploughs will all be branded with the names of the subscribers, and warranted, and a general assortment of the various sizes always on hand. Also on hand, a quantity of IRONS and CASTINGS, which will be sold on moderate terms, and instructions given (gratis) to such persons as may wish to make the wood work of their own ploughs.

As the proprietors of 'Peacock's Patents,' wish to deter the public from purchasing what they call 'half patents,' in allusion as we believe to those made by the subscribers, under the penalties of the law for every infringement, we deem it proper to state, that those who are disposed to purchase from us will be indemnified, in any security they demand, from the threats thus improperly held out.

Their ploughs are always made of the best materials, and of well seasoned wood.

They still carry on the COACH & WAGGON making business, at their old stand in Wood st. corner of Virgin alley.

LATE FROM SPAIN.

TARRAGONA, April 23.

Yesterday two discharges of cannon announced to us that the vessel bearing Don Augustin Arguilles and his companions in exile, approached our port. The constitutional authorities immediately assembled to receive them, and our best carriages were prepared to conduct them to their lodging in the new palace of the Archbishop. The whole population sallied forth to greet these fathers of their country. They disembarked in the midst of an immense crowd, and by the sound of military music from all our bands. They would not enter the vehicles prepared for them, but when they had reached the square of the Capuchins, the people became clamorous for them to ride, that they might be drawn by their countrymen. But Arguilles would not consent to receive this homage, and professed himself more happy to accompany them on foot The illustrious guests were followed by the acclamations of the people, until they entered the Cathedral, when they at once devoutly thanked the Most High for their return, and implored his blessing on the choice of deputies to represent the nation. Long live these fathers of their country—Long live our Religion—our Constitution, and our constitutional King.

MADRID, April 20.

The affairs of Spain begin already to enjoy the honours of proscription abroad: that is to say, justice is beginning to be done to us; we are beginning to be thought capable of reason. In the same manner as some score of silly persons among us not long since. made war upon the most salutary doctrines extant in the writings of the good and the wise; in the same manner as we foolishly and ferociously proscribed the works of Filangieri, Montesquieu, Condillac, Hume, Locke, &c. and all other writings, in short, of any value—so do some foreign nations now act with respect to our journals and particularly our Constitution. Prussia and Portugal appear to distinguish themselves by the severity of the regulations which they have prescribed on this subject.

It is said that our worthy Monarch lately received a memorial from some Reverend persons in a strain very hostile to the Constitution; and that his Majesty, after having read it with visible sentiments of indignation, handed it over to the Junta of Censorship. This course will soon put an end to such artifices.—His Majesty has ordered the apartment in the palace which Vargas occupied, to be handsomely fitted up for his Excellency Don Augustin Arguilles. Such a proceeding shews the respect and friendship which our beloved Monarch feels for those who were the victims of his evil counsellors.—By a Royal decree all persons throughout the kingdom, who have been, or are connected with the public finances, and all other persons conversant with that branch of public economy, are requested to give information as to the defects and evils which they have remarked in the present financial system, and to indicate the remedies which they think likely to be efficacious. His Majesty, as the head of the army by the Constitution, has chosen eight aides-de-camp, from among the generals devoted to the Constitution, who are to remain near his person, when not on duty elsewhere.

Extract of a letter, dated

PORT AU PRINCE, April 10.

"It is now the rainy season, but the coffee is coming in, and of excellent quality. Mountain coffee, of the best kind, sells at thirty one sous, that is eighteen cents. There are now lying in this harbour 80 or 100 vessels, some of them from France.

It is computed that there are in Port au Prince twenty thousand blacks, seven thousand mulattoes, and two thousand white people; the latter consisting of all nations, but chiefly of European French.

The British Admiral Sir Home Popham is expected here every day, and great preparations are making to receive him. In despite of the prejudices of the people of Jamaica, he entertained the Haytian deputies there as a British admiral, in company with lady Popham. And a writer by the name of Stewart, a member of the Jamaica legislature, attacked the admiral on this account in a piece of much virulence, which was subsequently re-published in the New-York papers. Stewart is himself a Creole of the island of Jamaica.

President Boyer is a small man, but brave, energetic, and gallant, without being luxurious. In the most troublesome periods of the civil wars, he has often given proofs of the greatest military talents, and under the walls of Port au Prince, checked the whole army of Christophe with a handful of men, composed of the best families of the republic, until the arrival of the forces of Petion from the south, co-operating with this Spartan band, saved the infant republic from the fangs of a merciless tyrant.

Whether personal liberty is protected, or private property respected, cannot be doubted, when it is known that even Frenchmen reside here and carry on business, and that they have a coffee house established here, and kept by an European Frenchman and woman which is much thronged by European Frenchmen.

You see here portrait painters, music masters, &c. from Europe, and they are all patronized and flourish. But they who can work with their hands, particularly in tilling the land, must, with prudence, acquire an immense property per day, and do not work but a part of the day.

Every person who can prove himself to be of African descent is allowed to resume the possession of the lands in the island, of which the revolution may have deprived him, and the government has manifested every disposition to facilitate them in the acquisition of their property and the honors of the republic. Some whose color was white, being four degrees removed from their African ancestry, have returned to this island to enjoy the property they might have had a right to in virtue of either of there ancestors. Yet the people of this country are not under their own prejudice, but prefer themselves on account of their complexion, and have already the idea that the highest order of quadroon beauty, of saffron hue, is more beautiful than the finest intermixtures of the red and white. But the generality of the republic vary in their appearance, from the deep black of general Jedaou, (for you must know that they have been all painted at full length, and are to be seen in a room of the national palace) to the perfectly European and military appearance of general Lys.

The National Palace has been lately decorated with the richest furniture from France and England, in the selection of which great taste has been exhibited.

THE FIRE AT TROY.

The first papers from Troy, printed since the fire, were received this morning. They are filled with the particulars of the calamity; and the following extracts of the Troy Post, written upon the spot, shew, that the former accounts have not been exaggerated.

N. Y. Com. Adt.

"A destroying angel has passed over our devoted city, left us desolate, and filled us with horror and dismay. A more horrible scene of destruction perhaps has never happened in the United States, confined to the same extent of ground, which is now covered with smoaking ruins. On Tuesday last, in the afternoon, a fire broke out in Colonel Davis's stable, which raged with the violence of a volcano, until the wealthiest part of our town was laid in ruins. The extraordinary rapidity of the flames, the frightful roarings of the conflagration, the appalling cries of the firemen, the wild and terrific confusion of this dessolating scene, defies description, and to those who witnessed it, the recollection is more like the horrors of a frightful dream than an awful reality. The largest brick buildings seemed to crumble down and melt before the fervent heat like metal in a furnace. From the moment a building took fire it appeared but an instant before it vanished. It is scarcely possible to conceive of such a perfect destruction by fire among so many brick buildings. Our possessions were but loaned to us, and they are no more. Many of us who believed ourselves in comfortable circumstances at three o'clock in the afternoon, in a few minutes were ruined. Many of our poorer citizens have left their little all, and are now fed by their more fortunate neighbours who escaped from destruction.

"Let it be recorded to the everlasting honour of our females, that hundreds of them were in the ranks, and laboured with incredible perseverance in passing water to the engines. On Wednesday we were again obliged to fight the fire in the ruins; and again on Thursday and on Thursday night until eleven o'clock—and here we again saw great numbers of our ladies in the ranks, and neither did they leave them until all were dismissed. A strong guard has nightly patrolled our streets, and a vigilent watch is still necessary. On Sunday hundreds were engaged in digging from the mountainous ruins some articles of merchandize, &c. and others are still extinguishing fires. Hundreds who come to see our wretched situation and weep over our burning cinders, see the once wealthy merchant, or the thriving mechanic, picking from the ashes a few useless articles of merchandize, or a broken implement of his trade, or the beggared labouring man and his houseless, united, naked little ones, seeking to find a spoon or a knife. Oh! it wrings the sinking heart with anguish. This is not fancy, it is a distressing reality.

Cultivation of the Grape, Olive, &c.

The following extract of a letter to a senator in Congress, is worth the attention of planters as well as of statesmen:—Nat. Intel.

"I am very much gratified by the appearance of conviction, that our soils, climates, and general capacities are likely to give us the grape vine and its fabrications upon a great and profitable scale. When our cotton becomes 160 millions lbs. and our sugar 60 mills. we shall feel deeply the want of other objects of cultivation and production. The vine is to France, 100,000,000 of dollars.

Now 60 millions of sugar at	$3, are	$1,800,000
and 160,000,000 cotton at 15 cents, is		24,000,000
		$28,800,000.

Surely this is a matter worthy of attention, at any time, and especially at this moment of general difficulties, when sugar, cotton, rice, and tobacco, with grain, are falling in our markets; and the culture of indigo is suspended.

The olive ought not to be lost sits of, nor the date.

I observe in the accounts of India, that it is stated that they manufacture much oil from the seeds of hemp, flax, and other vegetables. Among the productions raised for the manufacture of oil, is the vine producing beans or in botany 'Sesanum Orientale.' It was brought into South Carolina by the African ships, is raised there, and its oil has been sent hither and to New-York, as sallad oil, in presents, and for sale. I have tasted it at the house of Doctor Mease, here, and used it, with pleasure in my family. The pulse, bean or pea, when pressed and deprived of much of its oil, is excellent and pleasant food, boiled alone, or with vegetables which require butter or oil. It would be well for our government confidentially to instruct our consuls and commercial agents to send us this seed from Africa and Indostan."

Flight of Horses.—About the 10th of June, 1810, at 2 o'clock in the morning, while Col. R. M. Johnson's regiment was encamped on the peninsula below fort Wayne, in a beautiful grass plain, some of the horses that passed the line of sentinels and got some distance up the St. Joseph, became alarmed, and came running into camp in great fright. This alarmed all the horses in the regiment, which united in a solid column within the lines, and took three courses round the camp. It would seem almost incredible, but it is a fact, they appeared not to cover more than about 40 by 60 yards of ground, and yet their number was about 600.—The moon shone at the full, the camp was an open plain, and the scene awfully sublime. They at length forced their passage through the lines, overset several tents, carried away several pannels of fence, passed off through the woods, and were in a few minutes out of hearing of the loudest bells that belonged to the regiment. The next day was spent in collecting them, some of which were found ten or twelve miles from the camp, up the St. Joseph, and about 20 or 25, were never found, although pursued above 20 miles. The alarming flight of the horses of that regiment injured them more than could have been supposed; for they had run so long in such a compact body, that very few had escaped without being lamed, having their hind feet cut by the shoes of those that crowded on them.

The writer of this was an officer of the guard and then on duty. The night being clear and calm, the moon rolling in full splendour, the flight of the horses, which resembled distant thunder, the idea of an immediate attack from the Indians, and the ground of our encampment being paved with the bones of former warriors, all combined to furnish one of those awfully sublime night scenes that beggar description.

Extraordinary Fact.—Since the middle section of the Great Western Canal has become the highway of transportation, the first quality Onondaga salt had fallen in price at Utica, to one dollar and fifty cents per barrel. It was formerly considered cheap at three dollars.

Mr. Editor—The other day as I was rolling logs, near Shamokin creek, I discovered a Land Tortoise, and through curiosity, picked it up, when I observed the following engraving upon the under shell:

"Thomas Musgrave, 1712,"

and immediately below, in large capitals:

"ROBERT HUNTER, 1790,"

the former having been engraved, 108 and the latter 30 years ago. I also engraved my own name below, and set the record of ages at liberty. I leave this subject to a pen more able to do it justice.

Yours, &c.

SUICIDE.

On Wednesday last a man of the name of Michael Valley, a Baker by trade, deliberately walked with a gun in his hand to near the Catholic Chapel in his own town, where he took off his shoes and socks, and putting the muzzle of the gun to his throat, touched the trigger with his toe, and instantly put a period to his existence. Bedford pap.

A patent has been taken out by Mr. John Bragg, for a bridge constructed without mortice, tenant, or the use of iron. The specification thus describes it: "The bridge is formed by a single arch, composed of strong pieces of girders, connected by horizontal tiers or transverse purlins, which are also alternately butted together over the said purlins, with diagonal and horizontal braces and perpendicular and diagonal keys; with or without butments."—New England Palladium.

CEDAR GROVE,

King George County, Va. June 20th.

SIR—As the nearest friend to one of the deceased parties, I must request that you would be so obliging as to give publicity in your paper to the horrible event detailed in the subjoined notice, as it may serve to acquaint a numerous circle of friends of this dreadful catastrophe, and be a warning to the community generally.

Your obedient servant.

On Monday the 19th of June, a duel was fought between Messrs. Richard Stuart and Townsend S. Dale, both of King George County, Va. on the Maryland shore, immediately opposite their residence, at a short distance, with muskets loaded with buck shot. Mr. Dale was killed dead; Mr. Stuart so severely wounded that he expired in a few hours after. They were neighbours, near relations, and heretofore friends. The unfortunate difference which resulted in so tragical an end, occurred about a mere trifle; and thus adds two more to the list of wretched victims, who have fallen a sacrifice to false notions of honor and the horrid and Gothic practice of duelling.

New theory of the motions of the Planetary System.

A theory of the motions of the planetary system, which is likely to excite the attention of the scientific world, and may lead to the discovery of very unexpected astronomical facts. The author deduces the motion of the whole of our system from the progressive motion of the sun itself; a quality, which he says, must be equally possessed by all the heavenly bodies, resulting from the universally acknowledged laws of gravitation. He argues a priori, that, from progressive motion, rotation is produced, and a posteriori, that a body in free space, having rotation round its own axis, is a clear indication of its being in progressive movement. This he corroborates by the general belief now entertained, that our sun and planets are advancing towards the constellation Hercules. The opinion, that the sun has progressive motion, was not entertained till long after its rotatory motion was discovered. Captain B. states his conviction, that if from the discovery of the sun's rotation, and the acknowledged universality of gravity, its progression had been inferred, when Kepler first suggested that the planets moved around the sun by means of its atmosphere, the system of this philosopher would have obtained immediate and lasting credit, and that the hypothesis of these bodies being continued in motion by an original projectile impulse, would not have been resorted to in accounting for the phenomena of their motion.

CANINE MADNESS.—We mentioned some days since, that a mad dog had been killed in the vicinity of Montreal, having bitten several animals. The Montreal Courant of the 17th June, states that another dog, suspected of madness, had just been killed; another proof that in the notice so often taken of this subject, the editor has not been sporting with the fears of the public, nor guilty of exaggeration, he subjoins a list of the damage done on the river road to La Chine by a single dog; from which may be seen the very bad consequences that may result to both human life and property, from the extension of the malady, and therefore the necessity of instantly destroying, the first symptoms, of animals so effected. In this case indeed, (he adds) no human life has been lost; but the happy exemption being very remarkable, cannot always be expected.

Uncommon Production.—From a respectable source we are requested to state, that in the year 1818, Mr. Daniel Shreiner, of Manheim township, raised on four acres and a half of ground, four hundred and fifty bushels of Indian corn, which he sold at one dollar per bushel. The truth of the above can be testified by a number of his neighbours. Chester County what say you to this?

The city of Cadiz is older than Rome, London, Paris or Vienna, older than Madrid and Naples, Stockholm, and St. Peterburgh, and Constantinople; she is as old as Jerusalem. She is after Tyre and Sidon the oldest mercantile city in the world. When the pyramids of Egypt were built, Cadiz, too, was built. When Troy was destroyed, this Neptunic city was raised out of the ocean. Gades, the now Cadiz, was an old colony of the Phœnicians, who used this favourable situation to build the town, on account of the trade of the west coast of Europe and Africa, which was done about 700 years before Christ.

A rare instance of good fortune.——The principal incident in Coleman's Comedy of the Heir at Law, was fully realized in this neighbourhood lately: A farmer who resided a few miles hence, died in very indigent circumstances, leaving a son and daughter wholly unprovided for; the latter was compelled to go to service, and the former was about to do the same. Searching one day among some papers, which had been sent to his father with the effects of a deceased uncle, who died at sea, he discovered a lottery ticket, & upon inquiry, found that it had actually been drawn a capital prize of £10,000! In high glee with his good fortune, he has taken a large farm, stocked it well, and has given a handsome portion with his sister, who has married a young man to whom she has long been attached.

From late London papers.

An instance of strict friendship in an Algerine Captain.——During the bombardment of Algiers by the Marquis du Quesne, the inhabitants carried their cruelty to such a pitch, as to tie the French prisoners alive to the mouth of a cannon. A French officer, named Choisseul, and friend to an Algerine Captain, was bound to the mouth of a cannon, when the Captain being present, recognized him. He instantly solicited his friend's pardon; not being able to obtain it, he darted on his executioners, and three times rescued Choisseul. At length, finding all his efforts ineffectual, he embraced him, and addressed the cannonier in these words: ——"Fire! for as I cannot save my friend and benefactor, I will die with him!" The Dey, who witnessed the shocking sight, passed many eulogiums upon the generosity of his subject, and exempted Choisseul from death.

DARIEN, Geo. June 19.

Fortunate Escape.—On Friday evening last a party of young men from this place, were ascending the North-New-Port River, in a small boat, & near the head of navigation, discovered an enormous SNAKE, making towards them. Four rifles, three muskets and a pair of pistols were discharged in quick succession at the monster, which arrested its progress until the party reloaded and fired a second time, this, with the aid of harpoons, bayonets, &c. succeeded in taking its life. The Snake measured in length 21 feet and a half, and 18 inches between the eyes. On opening the body, a negro's head, a calf, four alligators, each measuring three feet, a green turtle, two dogs, six geese, besides many small birds were found therein. A similar animal has been seen in Sunbury river, by some of the young men, while on their nocturnal rambles. From the description heretofore given of the great Sea Serpent, and the enormous size of this animal, many have no doubt in saying it is the same. ——

LOOK HERE!

A remarkable yearling Calf was weighed on Saturday last, at Tammany's Mount, the residence of Matthew Van Lear, Esq. This fine, elegant American Calf, one year old, to the utter astonishment of all present, weighed 730lbs, and girted 5 feet 6 inches. The number of respectable gentlemen who were convened to witness this extraordinary animal, were as much surprised as gratified at the weight. We have all heard much of the fine Bakewell, Alderney, English and Irish breeds, but nothing of our American cattle. This beautiful and finely proportioned Calf was raised by the above named gentleman, from the common country breed, which has stocked his farm for many years. [Hagerstown T. Light.]

MADRID, April 20.

The affairs of Spain begin already to enjoy the honours of proscription abroad: that is to say, justice is beginning to be done to us; we are beginning to be thought capable of reason. In the same manner as some score of silly persons among us not long since. made war upon the most salutary doctrines extant in the writings of the good and the wise; in the same manner as we foolishly and ferociously proscribed the works of Filangieri, Montesquieu, Condillac, Hume, Locke, &c. and all other writings, in short, of any value—so do some foreign nations now act with respect to our journals and particularly our Constitution. Prussia and Portugal appear to distinguish themselves by the severity of the regulations which they have prescribed on this subject.

It is said that our worthy Monarch lately received a memorial from some Reverend persons in a strain very hostile to the Constitution; and that his Majesty, after having read it with visible sentiments of indignation, handed it over to the Junta of Censorship. This course will soon put an end to such artifices.—His Majesty has ordered the apartment in the palace which Vargas occupied, to be handsomely fitted up for his Excellency Don Augustin Arguilles. Such a proceeding shews the respect and friendship which our beloved Monarch feels for those who were the victims of his evil counsellors.—By a Royal decree all persons throughout the kingdom, who have been, or are connected with the public finances, and all other persons conversant with that branch of public economy, are requested to give information as to the defects and evils which they have remarked in the present financial system, and to indicate the remedies which they think likely to be efficacious. His Majesty, as the head of the army by the Constitution, has chosen eight aides-de-camp, from among the generals devoted to the Constitution, who are to remain near his person, when not on duty elsewhere.

Extract of a letter, dated

PORT AU PRINCE, April 10.

"It is now the rainy season, but the coffee is coming in, and of excellent quality. Mountain coffee, of the best kind, sells at thirty one sous, that is eighteen cents. There are now lying in this harbour 80 or 100 vessels, some of them from France.

It is computed that there are in Port au Prince twenty thousand blacks, seven thousand mulattoes, and two thousand white people; the latter consisting of all nations, but chiefly of European French.

The British Admiral Sir Home Popham is expected here every day, and great preparations are making to receive him. In despite of the prejudices of the people of Jamaica, he entertained the Haytian deputies there as a British admiral, in company with lady Popham. And a writer by the name of Stewart, a member of the Jamaica legislature, attacked the admiral on this account in a piece of much virulence, which was subsequently re-published in the New-York papers. Stewart is himself a Creole of the island of Jamaica.

President Boyer is a small man, but brave, energetic, and gallant, without being luxurious. In the most troublesome periods of the civil wars, he has often given proofs of the greatest military talents, and under the walls of Port au Prince, checked the whole army of Christophe with a handful of men, composed of the best families of the republic, until the arrival of the forces of Petion from the south, co-operating with this Spartan band, saved the infant republic from the fangs of a merciless tyrant.

Whether personal liberty is protected, or private property respected, cannot be doubted, when it is known that even Frenchmen reside here and carry on business, and that they have a coffee house established here, and kept by an European Frenchman and woman which is much thronged by European Frenchmen.

You see here portrait painters, music masters &c. from Europe, and they are all patronized and flourish. But they who can work with their hands, particularly in tilling the land, must, with prudence, acquire an independence. Their wages are high, they work but few hours per day, and do not work but a part of the day.

Every person who can prove himself to be of African descent is allowed to resume the possession of the lands in the island, of which the revolution may have deprived him, and the government has manifested every disposition to facilitate them in the acquisition of their property and the honors of the republic. Some whose color was white, being four degrees removed from their African ancestry, have returned to this island to enjoy the property they might have had a right to in virtue of either of there ancestors. Yet the people of this country are not under their own prejudice, but prefer themselves on account of their complexion, and have already the idea that the highest order of quadroon beauty, of saffron hue, is more beautiful than the finest intermixtures of the red and white. But the generality of the republic vary in their appearance, from the deep black of general Jedaou, (for you must know that they have been all painted at full length, and are to be seen in a room of the national palace) to the perfectly European and military appearance of general Lys.

The National Palace has been lately decorated with the richest furniture from France and England, in the selection of which great taste has been exhibited.

THE FIRE AT TROY.

The first papers from Troy, printed since the fire, were received this morning. They are filled with the particulars of the calamity; and the following extracts of the Troy Post, written upon the spot, shew, that the former accounts have not been exaggerated.

N. Y. Com. Adt.

"A destroying angel has passed over our devoted city, left us desolate, and filled us with horror and dismay. A more horrible scene of destruction perhaps has never happened in the United States, confined to the same extent of ground, which is now covered with smoaking ruins. On Tuesday last, in the afternoon, a fire broke out in Colonel Davis's stable, which raged with the violence of a volcano, until the wealthiest part of our town was laid in ruins. The extraordinary rapidity of the flames, the frightful roarings of the conflagration, the appalling cries of the firemen, the wild and terrific confusion of this dessolating scene, defies description, and to those who witnessed it, the recollection is more like the horrors of a frightful dream than an awful reality. The largest brick buildings seemed to crumble down and melt before the fervent heat like metal in a furnace. From the moment a building took fire it appeared but an instant before it vanished. It is scarcely possible to conceive of such a perfect destruction by fire among so many brick buildings. Our possessions were but loaned to us, and they are no more. Many of us who believed ourselves in comfortable circumstances at three o'clock in the afternoon, in a few minutes were ruined. Many of our poorer citizens have left their little all, and are now fed by their more fortunate neighbours who escaped from destruction.

"Let it be recorded to the everlasting honour of our females, that hundreds of them were in the ranks, and laboured with incredible perseverance in passing water to the engines. On Wednesday we were again obliged to fight the fire in the ruins; and again on Thursday and on Thursday night until eleven o'clock—and here we again saw great numbers of our ladies in the ranks, and neither did they leave them until all were dismissed. A strong guard has nightly patrolled our streets, and a vigilent watch is still necessary. On Sunday hundreds were engaged in digging from the mountainous ruins some articles of merchandize, &c. and others are still extinguishing fires. Hundreds who come to see our wretched situation and weep over our burning cinders, see the once wealthy merchant, or the thriving mechanic, picking from the ashes a few useless articles of merchandize, or a broken implement of his trade, or the beggared labouring man and his houseless, united, naked little ones, seeking to find a spoon or a knife. Oh! it wrings the sinking heart with anguish. This is not fancy, it is a distressing reality.

Cultivation of the Grape, Olive, &c.

The following extract of a letter to a senator in Congress, is worth the attention of planters as well as of statesmen:—Nat. Intel.

"I am very much gratified by the appearance of conviction, that our soils, climates, and general capacities are likely to give us the grape vine and its fabrications upon a great and profitable scale. When our cotton becomes 160 millions lbs. and our sugar 60 mills. we shall feel deeply the want of other objects of cultivation and production. The vine is to France, 100,000,000 of dollars.

Now 60 millions of sugar at $3, are	$1,800,000
and 160,000,000 cotton at 15 cents, is	24,000,000
	$28,800,000.

Surely this is a matter worthy of attention, at any time, and especially at this moment of general difficulties, when sugar, cotton, rice, and tobacco, with grain, are falling in our markets; and the culture of indigo is suspended.

The olive ought not to be lost sight of, nor the date.

I observe in the accounts of India, that it is stated that they manufacture much oil from the seeds of hemp, flax, and other vegetables. Among the productions raised for the manufacture of oil, is the vine producing beans or in botany 'Sesanum Orientale.' It was brought into South Carolina by the African ships, is raised there, and its oil has been sent hither and to New-York, as sallad oil, in presents, and for sale. I have tasted it at the house of Doctor Mease, here, and used it, with pleasure in my family. The pulse, bean or pea, when pressed and deprived of much of its oil, is excellent and pleasant food, boiled alone, or with vegetables which require butter or oil. It would be well for our government confidentially to instruct our consuls and commercial agents to send us this seed from Africa and Indostan."

Flight of Horses.—About the 10th of June, 1810, at 2 o'clock in the morning, while Col. R. M. Johnson's regiment was encamped on the peninsula below fort Wayne, in a beautiful grass plain, some of the horses that passed the line of sentinels and got some distance up the St. Joseph, became alarmed, and came running into camp in great fright. This alarmed all the horses in the regiment, which united in a solid column within the lines, and took three courses round the camp. It would seem almost incredible, but it is a fact, they appeared not to cover more than about 40 by 60 yards of ground, and yet their number was about 600.—The moon shone at the full, the camp was an open plain, and the scene awfully sublime. They at length forced their passage through the lines, overset several tents, carried away several pannels of fence, passed off through the woods, and were in a few minutes out of hearing of the loudest bells that belonged to the regiment. The next day was spent in collecting them, some of which were found ten or twelve miles from the camp, up the St. Joseph, and about 20 or 25, were never found, although pursued above 20 miles. The alarming flight of the horses of that regiment injured them more than could have been supposed; for they had run so long in such a compact body, that very few had escaped without being lamed, having their hind feet cut by the shoes of those that crowded on them.

The writer of this was an officer of the guard and then on duty. The night being clear and calm, the moon rolling in full splendour, the flight of the horses, which resembled distant thunder, the idea of an immediate attack from the Indians, and the ground of our encampment being paved with the bones of former warriors, all combined to furnish one of those awfully sublime night scenes that beggar description.

Extraordinary Fact.—Since the middle section of the Great Western Canal has become the highway of transportation, the first quality Onondaga salt had fallen in price at Utica, to one dollar and fifty cent per barrel. It was formerly considered cheap at three dollars.

Mr. Editor—The other day as I was rolling logs, near Shamokin creek, I discovered a Land Tortoise, and through curiosity, picked it up, when I observed the following engraving upon the under shell:

"Thomas Musgrave, 1712,"

and immediately below, in large capitals:

"ROBERT HUNTER, 1790,"

the former having been engraved, 108 and the latter 30 years ago. I also engraved my own name below, and set the record of ages at liberty. I leave this subject to a pen more able to do it justice.

Yours, &c.

Shamokin township, June 5th.

SUICIDE.

On Wednesday last a man of the name of Michael Valley, a Baker by trade, deliberately walked with a gun in his hand to near the Catholic Chapel in his own town, where he took off his shoes and socks, and putting the muzzle of the gun to his throat, touched the trigger with his toe, and instantly put a period to his existence. Bedford pap.

A patent has been taken out by Mr. John Bragg, for a bridge constructed without mortice, tenant, or the use of iron. The specification thus describes it: "The bridge is formed by a single arch, composed of strong pieces of girders, connected by horizontal tiers or transverse purlins, which are also alternately butted together over the said purlins, with diagonal and horizontal braces and perpendicular and diagonal keys; with or without butments."—New England Palladium.

To the Editor of the Federal Republican.

CEDAR GROVE,

King George County, Va. June 20th.

SIR—As the nearest friend to one of the deceased parties, I must request that you would be so obliging as to give publicity in your paper to the horrible event detailed in the subjoined notice, as it may serve to acquaint a numerous circle of friends of this dreadful catastrophe, and be a warning to the community generally.

Your obedient servant.

On Monday the 19th of June, a duel was fought between Messrs. Richard Stuart and Townsend S. Dale, both of King George County, Va. on the Maryland shore, immediately opposite their residence, at a short distance, with muskets loaded with buck shot. Mr. Dale was killed dead; Mr. Stuart so severely wounded that he expired in a few hours after. They were neighbours, near relations, and heretofore friends. The unfortunate difference which resulted in so tragical an end, occurred about a mere trifle; and thus adds two more to the list of wretched victims, who have fallen a sacrifice to false notions of honor and the horrid and Gothic practice of duelling.

New theory of the motions of the Planetary System.—A theory of the motions of the planetary system, and of the sun, in particular, has recently been published, in a small pamphlet, by captain Burney, which is likely to excite the attention of the scientific world, and may lead to the discovery of very unexpected astronomical facts. The author deduces the motion of the whole of our system from the progressive motion of the sun itself; a quality, which he says, must be equally possessed by all the heavenly bodies, resulting from the universally acknowledged laws of gravitation. He argues a priori, that, from progressive motion, rotation is produced, and a posteriori, that a body in free space, having rotation round its own axis, is a clear indication of its being in progressive movement. This he corroborates by the general belief now entertained, that our sun and planets are advancing towards the constellation Hercules. The opinion, that the sun has progressive motion, was not entertained till long after its rotatory motion was discovered. Captain B. states his conviction, that if from the discovery of the sun's rotation, and the acknowledged universality of gravity, its progression had been inferred, when Kepler first suggested that the planets moved around the sun by means of its atmosphere, the system of this philosopher would have obtained immediate and lasting credit, and that the hypothesis of these bodies being continued in motion by an original projectile impulse, would not have been resorted to in accounting for the phenomena of their motion.

CANINE MADNESS.—We mentioned some days since, that a mad dog had been killed in the vicinity of Montreal, having bitten several animals. The Montreal Courant of the 17th June, states that another dog, suspected of madness, had just been killed; another proof that in the notice so often taken of this subject, the editor has not been sporting with the fears of the public, nor guilty of exaggeration, he subjoins a list of the damage done on the river road to La Chine by a single dog; from which may be seen the very bad consequences that may result to both human life and property, from the extension of the malady, and therefore the necessity of instantly destroying, the first symptoms, of animals so effected. In this case indeed, (he adds) no human life has been lost; but the happy exemption being very remarkable, cannot always be expected.

Mr. Dumas, 1 do. 2 hogs and 1 calf; and Mr. Reeaes, 1 cow.—Total, 38 cows, 6 hogs, and 1 calf.

New Haven, (Con.) June 27.

CHERRIES.—We have seen this day a number of English Cherries, from the garden of General H. Howe, of this city, one of which measured three inches in circumference! They were perfectly ripe, and the most delicious fruit of the kind we have ever tasted.

LANCASTER, June 23.

Uncommon Production.—From a respectable source we are requested to state, that in the year 1818, Mr. Daniel Shreiner, of Manheim township, raised on four acres and a half of ground, four hundred and fifty bushels of Indian corn, which he sold at one dollar per bushel. The truth of the above can be testified by a number of his neighbours. Chester County what say you to this?

The city of Cadiz is older than Rome, London, Paris or Vienna, older than Madrid and Naples, Stockholm, and St. Peterburgh, and Constantinople; she is as old as Jerusalem. She is after Tyre and Sidon the oldest mercantile city in the world. When the pyramids of Egypt were built, Cadiz, too, was built. When Troy was destroyed, this Neptunic city was raised out of the ocean. Gades, the now Cadiz, was an old colony of the Phœnicians, who used this favourable situation to build the town, on account of the trade of the west coast of Europe and Africa, which was done about 700 years before Christ.

A rare instance of good fortune.——The principal incident in Coleman's Comedy of the Heir at Law, was fully realized in this neighbourhood lately: A farmer who resided a few miles hence, died in very indigent circumstances, leaving a son and daughter wholly unprovided for; the latter was compelled to go to service, and the former was about to do the same. Searching one day among some papers, which had been sent to his father with the effects of a deceased uncle, who died at sea, he discovered a lottery ticket, & upon inquiry, found that it had actually been drawn a capital prize of £10,000! In high glee with his good fortune, he has taken a large farm, stocked it well, and has given a handsome portion with his sister, who has married a young man to whom she has long been attached.

From late London papers.

An instance of strict friendship in an Algerine Captain.——During the bombardment of Algiers by the Marquis du Quesne, the inhabitants carried their cruelty to such a pitch, as to tie the French prisoners alive to the mouth of a cannon. A French officer, named Choisseul, and friend to an Algerine Captain, was bound to the mouth of a cannon, when the Captain being present, recognized him. He instantly solicited his friend's pardon; not being able to obtain it, he darted on his executioners, and three times rescued Choisseul. At length, finding it impossible to save his friend, he embraced him, and addressed the cannonier in these words:——"Fire! for as I cannot save my friend and benefactor, I will die with him!" The Dey, who witnessed the shocking sight, passed many eulogiums upon the generosity of his subject, and exempted Choisseul from death.

DARIEN, Geo. June 19.

Fortunate Escape.—On Friday evening last a party of young men from this place, were ascending the North-New-Port River, in a small boat, & near the head of navigation, discovered an enormous SNAKE, making towards them. Four rifles, three muskets and a pair of pistols were discharged in quick succession at the monster, which arrested its progress until the party reloaded and fired a second time, this, with the aid of harpoons, bayonets, &c. succeeded in taking its life. The Snake measured in length 21 feet and a half, and 18 inches between the eyes. On opening the body, a negro's head, a calf, four alligators, each measuring three feet, a green turtle, two dogs, six geese, besides many small birds were found therein. A similar animal has been seen in Sunbury river, by some of the young men, while on their nocturnal rambles. From the description heretofore given of the great Sea Serpent, and the enormous size of this animal, many have no doubt in saying it is the same. ——

LOOK HERE!

A remarkable yearling Calf was weighed on Saturday last, at Tammany's Mount, the residence of Matthew Van Lear, Esq. This fine, elegant American Calf, one year old, to the utter astonishment of all present, weighed 730lbs. and girted 5 feet 6 inches. The number of respectable gentlemen who were convened to witness this extraordinary animal, were as much surprised as gratified at the weight. We have all heard much of the fine Bakewell, Alderney, English and Irish breeds, but nothing of our American cattle. This beautiful and finely proportioned Calf was raised by the above named gentleman, from the common country breed, which has stocked his farm for many years. [Hagerstown T. Light.]

GAZETTE.

EDITED BY MORGAN NEVILLE.

MONDAY MORNING, JULY 10, 1820.

Those persons who do not receive their paper this week will oblige us by leaving their names. Mistakes may occur as we have employed a new carrier.

THE 44th anniversary of our independence was celebrated by a large portion of our citizens in a manner as interesting as it was novel. It was probably the first occasion in the western country on which a battalion of volunteers in complete uniform paraded together.

At eight o'clock the City Blues, the City Fencibles, the City Guards, & the Independent Blues, commanded by Lieut. P. Beard, Lieut. Thompson, Captain W. Wilkins, and Capt. W. Savory, formed their respective companies in different parts of the city, and marched them into Liberty street, above St. Clair, where the battalion was formed under the command of Captain Morgan Neville, of the City Blues, who being the oldest captain acted as Major for that day, assisted by Ensign Baird as adjutant. After the parade was formed, the battalion accompanied by an elegant band was marched down Wood street, through Front into market, up Market to the Allegheny bridge; after having crossed the bridge the battalion was wheeled into line in front of the town of Allegheny, and a salute of 24 rounds was fired by platoons, companies and battalion. The line of march was again taken up, & the troops were halted in the beautiful grove of oaks near the head of the Ohio, where arrangements had previously been made for their accommodation by the committee of arrangement. As soon as the invited guests had arrived the Declaration of Independence was read by captain Wilkins, after which a handsome address was delivered by Ross Wilkins, esq. a member of the City Blues. The company then sat down to a plentiful dinner prepared by Mr. Abraham Hopkins, at which the utmost harmony and decorum prevailed. After the cloth was removed a number of patriotic toasts, composed by a committee consisting of Messrs. Butler, Peterson, M'Candless and Evans, were drunk, in the sentiments of which every individual present sincerely participated. At five o'clock the battalion was again formed and marched into Liberty street, where it was dismissed.

It would be doing injustice to the citizen soldiers composing the different volunteer companies on parade that day, if the meed of approbation were to be withheld from them for their exemplary deportment during the whole celebration; the harmony that prevailed whilst at table, where persons of every political denomination were present, and the strict military subordination that was observed whilst on duty, deserve the applause of every citizen; we cannot conclude without wishing that the volunteer spirit which has for the last year exhibited itself with such effect in Pittsburgh, may be cherished as sacredly as the vestal fire; in a country whose dependance for defence is on the militia, it is idle to rely on any portion of it except that which is composed of volunteers; reason opposes any other conclusion, and the experience of the last war puts the question beyond a doubt.

Fourth of July.

A number of the inhabitants of Pitt township, met at the house of Mrs. Rippey, in Wilkinsburgh, for the purpose of celebrating the day. Capt. Peter Parchment being appointed President, and Captain William Parks, Vice-President. The Declaration of Independence was read by William B. Foster, and the company sat down to an excellent dinner, provided for the occasion:—After the cloth was removed, the following toasts were drunk, in domestic liquors, and the company retired at an early hour, in perfect harmony.

TOASTS.

1. The Day we celebrate—Sacred to the memory of those who shed their blood for our protection.

2. The President of the United States—The Chief Magistrate of a nation, not of a party.

3. The memory of Washington—While we admire his virtues, let us not forget his principles.

4. The immortal Congress of '74—May we steadily pursue their maxims.

5. The Governor of Pennsylvania.

6. Agriculture and Manufactures—Whom God hath joined together, let no man put asunder.

7. The State of Pennsylvania—May no enemy of domestic manufactures and internal improvement, have a seat in her councils.

8. Henry Clay—Success to his fortunes, private or political.

9. The Agricultural Societies of the United States—The enlightened advocates of national industry.

10. The Manufacturing Convention at

11. Walter Lowrie, esq.—Our faithful representative.

12. William Wilkins, esq.—The able advocate of internal improvements.

13. Henry Baldwin, esq.—The nation looks to him as the champion of her industry, and England dreads his Tariff more than our ships of battle.

14. The memory of General Richard Butler.

15. Home manufactures, Home consumption, and a safe Home to British agents.

16. The Army and Navy of the United States—May their deeds of valor be recorded on the hearts of their countrymen.

17. The Fair Sex.

The following remarks on Mr. Baldwins Speech on the tariff, are made by a New-York paper, which we take the liberty of laying before our readers.

We are happy to be able, at the commencement of our labours, to present the Speech of the Honorable Mr. Baldwin, on the Bill to regulate the duties on imposts. This Speech exhibits, in a masterly manner, the great principles of national policy in reference to a Tariff; and, as a document of uncommon ability, is worthy of an attentive perusal. The Bill to which it relates, was framed with a view, not so much to revenue or manufactures, as to the introduction of a policy by which the industry of the country might be resuscitated and encouraged, and the nation enabled to take the advantage of its internal resources, and adapt itself to the change which has taken place in its foreign commerce. The enlightened and liberal views, the comprehensive and impartial principles exhibited in this Speech, have placed the subject in a more commanding & unexceptionable light than it has ever occupied before. We hope soon to be in possession of the same gentleman's Speech on the Bill regulating the mode of collecting the duties, and that on the Bill laying a duty on certain sales by auction.

Shawanee Town, Ill. June 23, 1820.

On Wednesday last we were visited by a violent thunder gust attended with a heavy gale of wind from the East. It came up very suddenly about 6 o'clock in the afternoon and lasted upwards of an hour. We are sorry to add that almost all the boats at our landing were sunk or materially damaged. Some of these had valuable cargoes of corn, flour, salt, bacon, &c. a good deal of which it is feared will be lost. There were two keels and about twelve flat boats sunk; three of the latter belonged to Mr. Dix, from Pittsburg, and were laden with a large assortment of various articles which were on sale. Two cargoes of salt, about 500 barrels, in a keel and a flat belonging to Mr. Hughes, were also sunk.

Part of the cargo of one of the latter boats was saved.

HARRISBURG, June 24.

It is strongly suspected that the noted DAVID LEWIS, Connelly and others of the gang of robbers, who have infested this state for some time past, are now secreted about 6 miles from this place, in Cumberland county. We frequently hear of spring-houses and other places robbed of meat, butter, milk and bread, and other provisions, to the great annoyance of the owners. On Saturday night last, the house of Mr. EVERLY, near Kreitzer's tavern, was strongly assaulted by a band of ruffians, supposed to belong to the above company, but several men in the house preparing to give them a proper reception, the villains thought it prudent to make a precipitate retreat.

Lewis, it is said, was certainly recognized by a female the day previous, asking for milk and bread at a farm-house. She had seen him when taken at Bishoa's, this spring, and appears positive both as to his person and clothes.

Oracle.

HUNTSVILLE, A. T. June 9, 1820.

We feel ourselves reluctantly called upon to give publicity to a transaction, which, for bold daring violence, and contempt of the laws, has rarely been equalled in any country; and which, we are happy to say, but seldom occurs in the State of Alabama.

On Monday last, as a great concourse of the most respectable citizens from the adjoining counties in this state and Tennessee were collecting at the sale of public lands and town lots, a short time before the sale commenced, Mr. Rice, a merchant of this town, of the firm of Rice & Jones, made an attack upon Mr. Clay, a planter of Lawrence county. Each was armed with pistols and a dirk. As Mr. Rice was in the act of shooting his adversary, Maj. Wm. Fleming, of this county, who stood near him, with a view of preventing the injury, knocked the pistol up with his hand, and accidentally received the bullet in his chin: Rice then attacked Clay with a dirk and gave him several severe stabs before Clay could extricate a pistol from his pocket, when he discharged a heavy load of buck-shot against Rice's side: by this time the parties were separated. Major Fleming's wound is a most shocking one; the ball passed along the jaw bone longitudinally, and fractured it in two places transversely; many pieces of the bone were taken out at its first dressing, but his surgeon has hopes of his recovery, though his face will be horribly disfigured. Mr. Rice sincerely regrets this unintentional injury to Major Fleming: but what

If Mr. R. in his impetuous rage, disregarded the mandate of God and the laws of man, a sense of propriety should have thaught him not to endanger the life of others by making a furious attack on his adversary, with deadly weapons, on so public an occasion.

Mr. Clay received several stabs with a dirk in his side and back, one of which at the time was supposed to be mortal, but we are now told he has a prospect of recovery. Mr. Rice fortunately escaped any material injury; the buck-shot which were discharged against his side did not penetrate the skin, although they severely bruised it. It is supposed the pistol was too heavily loaded with lead, there being the marks of ten or twelve buck-shot on the skin, which dropped down as he undressed himself.

The cause of this unhappy affair, as we understand it, originated, a short time previous, in a trifle, not worth mentioning; but was blown into such a flame by mutual insults & recriminations that nothing but blood could allay it.

As yet, no steps have been taken for investigating the subject before a judicial tribunal.

COUNTERFEITING.

Albany, N. Y. June 23.

Several counterfeit half dollar pieces, dated 1818, have lately been detected in this city. The composition is of lead, glass, zinc, &c. and the imitation is so perfect as to render it extremely difficult to detect the imposition, either by the appearance, or sound of the coin. On a close examination the counterfeits will be found to have rather a dim and dead colour, and when rubbed between the fingers, appears a little oily or sweaty to the touch.

THE LOAN FOR 1820.

FROM THE NATIONAL INTELLIGENCER.

The time for receiving proposals for the 6 per cent. loan of two millions expired on Wednesday. The offer of the bank of the United States, which was 2 per cent. premium upon the whole loan, being the most favorable, has been accepted. The whole amount which was offered above par, was nearly six millions. The premium on this loan would, doubtless, have been much greater, but for the uncertainty as to the term of its duration, it being redeemable at the pleasure of the government.

We could wish the intelligence from South America to be a little more clear than it is usually; for it is now the only beligerent portion of the globe, and of course intelligence concerning it is more interesting than from any other quarter. Not a little art is required to unravel the various accounts put forth. We copy the news from Carthegena, out of the Charleston Courier, without knowing what to make of it. The last accounts from that quarter were by a vessel at New-York, which left Porto Cabello on the 30th of May. The Charleston news was received at Kingston on the 27th of May. All other dates are omitted; but perhaps one account is as late as another. The first stated that the patriots were closely pent up in Rio de la Hacha by the surrounding royalists, now we are told they are in a successful march for Carthagena. We are inclined to think that the latter story is nearly the truth: and that the forces which landed at Hacha have marched toward St. Martha, for it was said that a plan was concerted to attack the latter place simultaneously by sea and land; that Brion had sailed with the fleet for that purpose; and, one of the Charleston papers states that he was blockading St. Martha with thirteen vessels. Bolivar was, according to the Porto Cabello account, at Achagua, which is on the head waters of the river Apure, in the interior. It would seem, however, that he has marched toward Charthagena, & joined with the patriots from Hacha.

One of the Charleston papers, from which the Philadelphia papers of last evening have copied, blindly states that the two divisions from Hacha had concentrated with the army under Bolivar in Carraccas. Now it would take them longer to march southward into that province, from Hacha, than to march northward to St. Martha. Union.

GAZETTE.

EDITED BY MORGAN NEVILLE.

MONDAY MORNING, JULY 10, 1820.

Those persons who do not receive their paper this week will oblige us by leaving their names. Mistakes may occur as we have employed a new carrier.

THE 44th anniversary of our independence was celebrated by a large portion of our citizens in a manner as interesting as it was novel. It was probably the first occasion in the western country on which a battalion of volunteers in complete uniform paraded together.

At eight o'clock the City Blues, the City Fencibles, the City Guards, & the Independent Blues, commanded by Lieut. P. Beard, Lieut. Thompson, Captain W. Wilkins, and Capt. W. Savory, formed their respective companies in different parts of the city, and marched them into Liberty street, above St. Clair, where the battalion was formed under the command of Captain Morgan Neville, of the City Blues, who being the oldest captain acted as Major for that day, assisted by Ensign Baird as adjutant. After the parade was formed, the battalion accompanied by an elegant band was marched down Wood street, through Front into market, up Market to the Allegheny bridge; after having crossed the bridge the battalion was wheeled into line in front of the town of Allegheny, and a salute of 24 rounds was fired by platoons, companies and battalion. The line of march was again taken up, & the troops were halted in the beautiful grove of oaks near the head of the Ohio, where arrangements had previously been made for their accommodation by the committee of arrangement. As soon as the invited guests had arrived the Declaration of Independence was read by captain Wilkins, after which a handsome address was delivered by Ross Wilkins, esq. a member of the City Blues. The company then sat down to a plentiful dinner prepared by Mr. Abraham Hopkins, at which the utmost harmony and decorum prevailed. After the cloth was removed a number of patriotic toasts, composed by a committee consisting of Messrs. Butler, Peterson, M'Candless and Evans, were drunk, in the sentiments of which every individual present sincerely participated. At five o'clock the battalion was again formed and marched into Liberty street, where it was dismissed.

It would be doing injustice to the citizen soldiers composing the different volunteer companies on parade that day, if the meed of approbation were to be withheld from them for their exemplary deportment during the whole celebration; the harmony that prevailed whilst at table, where persons of every political denomination were present, and the strict military subordination that was observed whilst on duty, deserve the applause of every citizen; we cannot conclude without wishing that the volunteer spirit which has for the last year exhibited itself with such effect in Pittsburgh, may be cherished as sacredly as the vestal fire; in a country whose dependance for defence is on the militia, it is idle to rely on any portion of it except that which is composed of volunteers; reason opposes any other conclusion, and the experience of the last war puts the question beyond a doubt.

Fourth of July.

A number of the inhabitants of Pitt township, met at the house of Mrs. Rippey, in Wilkinsburgh, for the purpose of celebrating the day. Capt. Peter Parchment being appointed President, and Captain William Parks, Vice-President. The Declaration of Independence was read by William B. Foster, and the company sat down to an excellent dinner, provided for the occasion:—After the cloth was removed, the following toasts were drunk, in domestic liquors, and the company retired at an early hour, in perfect harmony.

TOASTS.

1. The Day we celebrate—Sacred to the memory of those who shed their blood for our protection.

2. The President of the United States—The Chief Magistrate of a nation, not of a party.

3. The memory of Washington—While we admire his virtues, let us not forget his principles.

4. The immortal Congress of '74—May we steadily pursue their maxims.

5. The Governor of Pennsylvania.

6. Agriculture and Manufactures—Whom God hath joined together, let no man put asunder.

7. The State of Pennsylvania—May no enemy of domestic manufactures and internal improvement, have a seat in her councils.

8. Henry Clay—Success to his fortunes, private or political.

9. The Agricultural Societies of the United States—The enlightened advocates of national industry.

10. The Manufacturing Convention at

11. Walter Lowrie, esq.—Our faithful representative.

12. William Wilkins, esq.—The able advocate of internal improvements.

13. Henry Baldwin, esq.—The nation looks to him as the champion of her industry, and England dreads his Tariff more than our ships of battle.

14. The memory of General Richard Butler.

15. Home manufactures, Home consumption, and a safe Home to British agents.

16. The Army and Navy of the United States—May their deeds of valor be recorded on the hearts of their countrymen.

17. The Fair Sex.

The following remarks on Mr. Baldwins Speech on the tariff, are made by a New-York paper, which we take the liberty of laying before our readers.

We are happy to be able, at the commencement of our labours, to present the Speech of the Honorable Mr. Baldwin, on the Bill to regulate the duties on imposts. This Speech exhibits, in a masterly manner, the great principles of national policy in reference to a Tariff; and, as a document of uncommon ability, is worthy of an attentive perusal. The Bill to which it relates, was framed with a view, not so much to revenue or manufactures, as to the introduction of a policy by which the industry of the country might be resuscitated and encouraged, and the nation enabled to take the advantage of its internal resources, and adapt itself to the change which has taken place in its foreign commerce. The enlightened and liberal views, the comprehensive and impartial principles exhibited in this Speech, have placed the subject in a more commanding & unexceptionable light than it has ever occupied before. We hope soon to be in possession of the same gentleman's Speech on the Bill regulating the mode of collecting the duties, and that on the Bill laying a duty on certain sales by auction.

Shawanee Town, Ill. June 23, 1820.

On Wednesday last we were visited by a violent thunder gust attended with a heavy gale of wind from the East. It came up very suddenly about 6 o'clock in the afternoon and lasted upwards of an hour. We are sorry to add that almost all the boats at our landing were sunk or materially damaged. Some of these had valuable cargoes of corn, flour, salt, bacon, &c. a good deal of which it is feared will be lost. There were two keels and about twelve flat boats sunk; three of the latter belonged to Mr. Dix, from Pittsburg, and were laden with a large assortment of various articles which were on sale. Two cargoes of salt, about 500 barrels, in a keel and a flat belonging to Mr. Hughes, were also sunk.

Part of the cargo of one of the latter boats was saved.

HARRISBURG, June 24.

It is strongly suspected that the noted DAVID LEWIS, Connelly and others of the gang of robbers, who have infested this state for some time past, are now secreted about 6 miles from this place, in Cumberland county. We frequently hear of spring-houses and other places robbed of meat, butter, milk and bread, and other provisions, to the great annoyance of the owners. On Saturday night last, the house of Mr. EVERLY, near Kreitzer's tavern, was strongly assaulted by a band of ruffians, supposed to belong to the above company, but several men in the house preparing to give them a proper reception, the villains thought it prudent to make a precipitate retreat.

Lewis, it is said, was certainly recognized by a female the day previous, asking for milk and bread at a farm-house. She had seen him when taken at Bishoa's, this spring, and appears positive both as to his person and clothes.

Oracle.

HUNTSVILLE, A. T. June 9, 1820.

We feel ourselves reluctantly called upon to give publicity to a transaction, which, for bold daring violence, and contempt of the laws, has rarely been equalled in any country; and which, we are happy to say, but seldom occurs in the State of Alabama.

On Monday last, as a great concourse of the most respectable citizens from the adjoining counties in this state and Tennessee were collecting at the sale of public lands and town lots, a short time before the sale commenced, Mr. Rice, a merchant of this town, of the firm of Rice & Jones, made an attack upon Mr. Clay, a planter of Lawrence county. Each was armed with pistols and a dirk. As Mr. Rice was in the act of shooting his adversary, Maj. Wm. Fleming, of this county, who stood near him, with a view of preventing the injury, knocked the pistol up with his hand, and accidentally received the bullet in his chin: Rice then attacked Clay with a dirk and gave him several severe stabs before Clay could extricate a pistol from his pocket, when he discharged a heavy load of buck-shot against Rice's side: by this time the parties were separated. Major Fleming's wound is a most shocking one; the ball passed along the jaw bone longitudinally, and fractured it in two places transversely; many pieces of the bone were taken out at its first dressing, but his surgeon has hopes of his recovery, though his face will be horribly disfigured. Mr. Rice sincerely regrets this unintentional injury to Major Fleming: but what must be his feelings for having, in this rash of

If Mr. R. in his impetuous rage, disregarded the mandate of God and the laws of man, a sense of propriety should have thaught him not to endanger the life of others by making a furious attack on his adversary, with deadly weapons, on so public an occasion.
